

It's All Your Fault: The Truth About the Climate Crisis and What We Can Do About It

The climate crisis is a real and urgent threat to our planet and our way of life. We are already seeing the effects of climate change all around us, from rising sea levels to more extreme weather events. If we don't act now, the consequences will be devastating.

In It's All Your Fault, acclaimed environmental journalist Bill McKibben tells the truth about the climate crisis and what we can do about it. McKibben shows that the climate crisis is not a natural disaster, but a man-made problem caused by our addiction to fossil fuels. He also shows that we have the solutions to the climate crisis, but we need to act now.
